Revit is used by professionals on everyday building applications.", and I'm learning it on my own over the summer before the fall semester 2013 and I am having problem performing one of the steps in Chapter one of Revit Architecture 2013 No experience necessary.\r\nMy question is this. On objection selection step 2 it says \"new the two 16'-0 L shaped walls, pick(lift-click and hold down the left mouse button when the cursor is at a point to the right of the walls but above the long, 100'-0 horizontal wall.

are some mistakes but usually , those are printing mistakes. I can suggest you some books for design but it will be better if you search with some of the keywords here :\r\n\r \nhttp://libgen.org \r\n\r\n\nThis site provides books (ebooks) for all topics. May be, you get a book of your choice and matching your syllabus. \r\n\r\n\nElse, search on google for design resources. There are many resources where you can these type of stuff.\r\n\r\n\nBest of luck! ",

                    "body" : "Hi, I recommend you to see what kind of things you want to do, there are different areas, modelling, texturing, rigging, animation, lighting and rendering, depending of what area you want to develop choose a program. The most part of studios are looking for specialised people.\r\n\r\nThere are different programs and each one is good in one thing (or a lot of things), for example if you want to make some characters or some really specialised things I recommend you to use Autodesk Maya, if you instead want to do some motion graphics with 3D and some fast things that look really good I recommend you Cinema 4D. If you want to do some Architecture stuff use 3D max or Autocad.\r\n\r\nMaya is really good, I love to model and make characters with it , but to use some textures Cinema 4D is really cool, you can download Gorilla grayscale textures and make  things look really cool so fast. Also Maya is really good to animate, but Cinema 4D also is good.\r\n\r\nOne thing that I recommend you is to buy a license of Digital Tutors (http://www.digitaltutors.com) is $225 dollars 6 months and they have almost all the programs for 3D, is a really good option to learn and see different things. Also you could buy the personal license with a friend  (but it's not really legal) and share it to try it. Really  this is not Digital Tutors publicity, it totally worth it,( I got it 2 months a go and I should have it a long time a go) when I started (almost 5 years ago) I looked everything that was free, and I totally hated it, because when I find something good almost all the times was incomplete, and is totally frustrating to be watching a tutorial and have to cut it in the half because you don't have the next file. Now there are things in youtube really useful. \r\n\r\nAlso learn to use After effects is really useful to composite and to do some easy 3D stuff, look the plugin element 3D from Video Copilot, is really useful to do some fast stuff, the render is so fast (really fast). \r\n \r\nIf you have iphone (I dont know if is in android) I recommend you to download this apps : FPS calculate (to take the time of your movements )and motion timer (to make some animation curves of your movements) it is an initial kit to animate. Also read the animator`s Survival Kit it is a really good book and gonna make you understand the 12 principles of animation.\r\n\r\nIf in the future you really like animation, look to buy a Wacom, it's also really useful in animation for modelling, texturing and make some sketches.\r\n\r\nYou will need a lot of patience with the renders, 3D animation is a combination of technology, art and a lot of patience. Say good bye to your butt, you gonna be seated a lot of time :P\r\n\r\nAlso is useful learn to draw, make your first moves with some tutorials.\r\n\r\nHope it could be useful and good luck with animation :)\r\n\r\n \r regularly creates block plans for jobs that we are tendering and to do that we use polyline to outline our shape then hatch to create the block colours for the block plan.

        At the moment we have to reselect the hatch and 'send to back' so that all the relevant information is then on top of the hatch.... so, is there any way that we can set up a command so that the hatch is always 'send to back' so that the relevant information is on top of the hatch?\r\n\r\n Any information would be great! Cheers", looking for a soil brush. I need it to be as realistic as possible. Possibly more digging a hole kind of thing. Does this make sense? If anyone has any good links for PSDs or a silhouette or even a brush based on gardening, parks, etc.. it would be much appreciated.

\r\n\r\nI hope this is a okay question to ask here, because I haven't seen many people ask this question yet.\r\nIn case it's needed I'm using Photoshop and Illustrator both CS6.", \r\nowls i've already done: the doctor (9, 10, and 11), rose tyler, and merlin. \r\n\r\nif you have any ideas, please let me know. i'm super bored. can be any character from a tv show or movie. if i don't know the character you list, then i probably won't do it. but all/any ideas would be greatly appreciated :3 \r\n\r\nthanks~", editit things on photoshop. The ideas and methods are the most important things I will be teaching. So if you dont have photoshop don't worry! you can use gimp or any other program, I am just showing you the basic concepts. I have been taking photography for three years now and I have been using the program and learning for about twice that! \n \nNow I have somthing to ask you...WHERE DO I START???\n\nThere is so much to cover I want to know where you think I should start. Pick one of the following:\n\nBasic to advanced touch up (two or three video tutorials)\n\nOwl editing (one or two video tutorials [what you learn here can go towards any animal or object you create.])", courses in College would you recommend taking? I read somewhere that I should of taken a drawing class in High School. Is that true? Because I suck at Drawing, I can barely draw a stick person. I know a lot about the design world too, like Web Design as well. Is there a course I should take that would cover both graphic and web design? I also self-taught myself on both subjects, I didn't take a class, read a book etc.. 30 days to use the CAD. Does anyone knows how to extend it? OR I shouldn't worry about it.

I try to contact via e-mail with help desk but it seems no e-mail on their website and the form that I to fill and send it to them doesn't accept the version of CAD I was typing.
Any idea what should I do????", ask questions related to designing and answer someone's question. You can come up with some creative and innovative ideas related to designing. As already mentioned above, we advise you to spare some time to view the OpenStudy code-of-conduct, so that you can begin you journey in this site easily , you can get it here :\r\n\r\nhttp://openstudy.com/code-of-conduct \r\n\r\nJust as you posted the question, you can also answer questions just like we are replying to your question. If you have some image/screenshot/attachment related to your ideas or anything related to Designing, you can attach them by going to the \"Attach File\" option easily. \r\n\r\nSo, now its time for your to start your journey in OpenStudy , get help from us and also help others , go ahead and post something innovative and creative related to Designing here, we are willing to see it and if required we will help you! \r\n\r\nBest of Luck!!! \\(\\ddot \\smile\\)\r\n",
